Andersonville. The name of this infamous prison pen, even at this late day, causes a shudder of horror to run through the frames of those who have read of its horrors, as well as those who were confined within its walls. A correspondent of an eastern paper has recently visited the site of the prison at Andersonville, which is about two hours ride from Macon, Ga. It is now called Anderson Station, and there is nothing to characterize the spot except the Union cemetery some twenty acres in extent, over which floats the star spangled banner. It is constructed on the spot where the prisoners were buried, and the trenches were dug with such precision and regularity that it was not found necessary to remove the bodies, and they lie in the same graves in which they were interred by their comrades, under the watchful eyes of the Georgia home guards. The cemetery is surrounded by a solid brick wall, with an iron gate, and is under the charge of a superintendent who lives on the grounds. No attempt has been made to ornament the spot, and all the plants and flowers would not disport the melancholy memories that surround the spot where sleep so many of our martyred dead. The correspondent alluded to has the following in regard to the cemetery, visitors, etc.: "Southerners shun the spot, but the cemetery is much visited by northern travelers, and the register in the superintendent's lodge contains many strange inscriptions beside the names of the visitors. One lady asks forgiveness of God for the murderer of her brother, who sleeps in the cemetery. Sentiments of passionate denunciation are more frequent. Occasionally a man who was in the stockade turns up among the visitors. These men, whatever their natural temper, the superintendent says, can almost be distinguished by the effects of fear, dread, and vivid recollection, which come back like a shock into their faces, as they again stand on the now quiet, and sunlit scene of their war experience. "In the cemetery the ground is at a general level, and the graves of the known and unknown, properly separated, ranged in rows, closely laid, as far as the eye can reach. There are actually buried on this elevation 13,716 men. The soldier whose identity was preserved by his comrades is marked in his resting place by a white marble stone, rising eighteen inches above the level of the ground. A square marble block with the word 'Unknown' on it is repeated about one thousand times in the cemetery. There was no necessity for the contractor to swell his bill, with mule bones in filling up his burial place. There were bones and millions of bones; bones ready at hand when he began his work to occupy him till long after he was wearied with it and longed to see it done. The bodies of 14,000 men, who perished not where death was need and neck with life, on the battlefield, but in the comparative (?) security of prison walls. "Part of the stockade is still standing. There were two rows of trees, one inside the other. The outer row has fallen down, save for a few posts here and there, but a large part of the inner walls still stands. Trees have grown up around the old pen, and a thick growth of underbrush now covers the site of the prison. No traces of the famous brook that ran through the stockade remain, nor the wonderful wells dug by the prisoners. It is all now a mild and peaceful section of country. Many of the soldiers in the cemetery have handsome headstones lifted to their memories by friends in the north, and efforts are frequently made to have certain graves 'kept green' with flowers and a shower-pot."

The Primaries Held Last Night Largely Attended—The Official Report. The 1890 Republican boom in Decatur township was fairly inaugurated last night at the district primaries held pursuant to call. The attendance was unusually large despite the wretchedly bad weather, and much genuine enthusiasm was manifested. Below we give the names of the delegates elected to attend the township nominating convention called to meet at the court house in this city to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, as reported by the secretaries. FIRST DISTRICT. He is one of the most faithful, accommodating and efficient officials this county ever had. FREELY CALDWELL, general traveling passenger agent for the Indianapolis and St. Louis Railway Co., and also connected with the Bee Line and Lake Shore roads, is in the city, and gave us a pleasant call to-day. He says that he has reliable information from Leadville, that recently Jake DuBois sold his interest in one of his mines there for $100,000, and that Jake received a cash payment of $75,000. Gen'l Fred J. Smith, the working candidate for assessor, gave us another flattering call this noon. He has been having a slight attack of lung fever, and says unfortunately he has allowed his stock of groceries to run low, but he promises his patrons that he will open up with a mammoth supply immediately following the township election. Gen. John I. Rinaker, of Carlinville, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and Captain F. Y. Hedley, editor of the Bunker Hill Gazette, arrived in the city this noon from Mattoon, and registered at the St. Nicholas. Both gentlemen paid their respects to the Republican. Gen. Rinaker will leave for Springfield to-morrow morning. "Bumps" Saturday Night. Speaking of John Dillon's new play the Minneapolis Tribune says: "The Blaisdell Comedy Company and John Dillon made their re-appearance at the Academy of Music last night in a well filled house. 'Bumps,' the new comedy played by them, proved to be one of the most mirth-provoking entertainments of the season. Mr. Dillon in the principal character, Major Clarence Hunnicome Bumps, never appeared to as good advantage before a Minneapolis audience, and gave one of his greatest comedy creations. The company supporting him is one of the best that has visited this city the present season. Miss Louise Dillon, J. W. Blaisdell, J. B. Evenden and Miss Rose Watson all had characters suited to their peculiar ability, and all appeared to advantage." A good cook stove; price $10, at Miller's restaurant. mar26-6d3d What Shall We Do With Them? The decision of Judge Taylor, consigning Peter Sells and Nick Weber to the guard-house and keeping of Street Supervisor Shorb—in effect reiterating the sentences fixed by Judge Smith of the Macon county circuit court, and Judge Greer of the county court, as published in these columns yesterday, has occasioned much comment. Mr. Shorb will act under section 4, of "an act to amend the criminal code, to change the punishment of persons convicted of the crime of petty larceny and misdemeanors," etc., in force July 1st, 1879, as follows: [POWER OF KEEPER OF WORK-HOUSE, ETC.] That any keeper of any work-house, street commissioner, city marshal, or supervisor of streets, or person in whose keeping such convicted person shall be placed, may provide for the safe keeping of such person, during the time such person may be in his charge, by providing balls and chains, and attaching them to such person at any time, and may, if deemed necessary to prevent the escape of such prisoner, confine him in the county jail during the night, and at any other time such prisoner shall not be kept at work. It will be observed that the section states that Shorb may confine his prisoners in the county jail in case he believes they intend to escape, but we understand that the supervisor will allow the men to board and lodge at their homes, if they so desire, and if they do not report to him each day for work and put in their time, he will not credit them for work not performed. Under the sentences Sells has 74 days to serve on the streets; Weber 44 days, and Rooney 74 days. Each of the parties have received a credit of from one to three days, and until they work out their full time they will be in the custody of Mr. Shorb. An Excellent Play. Theatre-goers missed it last night by not giving Barney Macaulay a rousing reception at the opera house. "Uncle Dan," in the hands of Macaulay and his fine support, is far ahead of Joshua Whitcomb, because the plot is more natural, the scenes more realistic, the acting smoother, and there is not the least attempt at vulgarity or coarseness. "Uncle Dan" is a brave and guileless old Maine farmer, whose kindness of heart and persistency of purpose finally terminate in bringing joy and peace to his widowed niece and her daughter. The difficulties that "Uncle Dan" had to overcome to accomplish his double purpose, makes the play thoroughly entertaining, and kept the delighted audience applauding to the end. Macaulay stands head and shoulders above all the specialty comedians who have ever visited Decatur, and should have been greeted by a packed house. Minnie Madderu, as Chip, Miss Annie Douglass, as Mrs. McClelland, are real artists, and won hearty applause. The company left for Fort Wayne, Ind., last night, and will give a performance there this evening, in which St. Pettingill's Annihilator will play a prominent part, as it did here last night. Pleasant Leap Year Party. Last night the commodious residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hays on East Eldorado street was the scene of a happy leap year dancing party, given by the young ladies of the Sans Cerecunie Club, who made all the necessary arrangements for the affair. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Abbott, Mrs. J. L. Fenton, Misses Alice Freeman, Adele Shellabarger, Alice Priest, Gussie Hill, Jessie Stevens, Jessie Fenton, Hattie Hardy, Notie Large, Rella Shockey, Cera King, Meta Battiger, Ella Carey, Laura Johns and Fannie Smith, and Messrs. Sherry Johns, George R. Dodson, Frank Curtis, Charles Musser, Charles Tyler, Bert Hardy, Ed. Judson, Ed. Sloan, Arthur Alexander, Herb Bartholomew, J. W. Baker, Wilson Bering and Ed. Powers. Music was furnished by Prof. Wilhelm's full orchestra. Pasturage. The undersigned will have good pasturage for thirty cows. Address through postoffice. C. E. BONE. March 26-dtd. Tributes of Respect. At a special meeting of Neptune Hose Company No. 3, held at their hall March 19, 1890, the following resolutions were adopted in regard to the death of our worthy brother and former chief, H. B. Durfee: WHEREAS, In the death of our worthy brother the Fire Department has lost a worthy and active fireman, and as a citizen a good, just and upright man, and as a company we will ever remember his many virtues, therefore, Resolved, That in his death the family and friends have our heartfelt sympathy, and that the hose house be draped in mourning for the space of 30 days. Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be tendered to the family, and also to the city papers for publication. Wm. E. NELSON, D. B. SHELLABARGER, A. C. CORNMAN, Committee. GO TO-NIGHT. In addition to the fine oysters and splendid ice-cream, cake, etc., there will be colored eggs of all sizes and colors. Individuals, families or Sunday Schools wanting Easter eggs singly or by the quantity, can get them at low rates on Thursday night. In addition to the social and eatable enjoyments, there will be a cabinet of curious curiosities, such as Decatur never saw, and will never see again—superior in its kind to all "art galleries."
